Keeping pro soccer alive here part of Paul Mendes' job

by Joe Naiman

La Mesa's Pacific Teleproductions has arranged an Oct. 8 soccer game at Qualcomm Stadium between the Mexican champion team Guadalajara Chivas and the top Guatemalan team Club Aurora.

It's a pleasant opportunity for the San Diego area's soccer fans, but it's just part of the job for La Mesa resident Paul Mendes who has been with Pacific Telecommunications, since it started in business in La Mesa 11 years ago.

Mendes is from the San Francisco Bay area, but came to the University of San Diego to play baseball. He was a four-year starting second baseman, although with Padres coach Tim Flannery playing at Chapman during that time, he only made the all-district's second team twice.

When USD made the NCAA Division II playoffs twice during Mendes' college career, including the College World Series during his senior year in 1978, the school decided it needed a sports information director. The school had added several women's sports at that time.

To save money, it was decided to give the position to a student - Mendes. The better-than-expected performance of the Toreros forced him to move his weding to an off-night between College World Series games, but Paul and Karen will celebrate their 20th anniversary next May.

"Getting that experience put me way ahead," he said. "It allowed me to learn and do things while I was going to school." Mendes was also fortunate that Buffalo's National Basketball Association team moved to San Diego after he graduated.

He held several positions with the Clippers until the team moved out of San Diego after five seasons.

By that time, the San Diego Sockers were playing both indoor and outdoor seasons, and Mendes spent two years with the team as Vice President of Marketing.

When the Memphis Americans of the Major Indoor Soccer League moved to Las Vegas, Mendes accepted the position of general manager.

He also began working on a deal with Las Vegas' Channel 21 to package the Americans games along with University of Nevada Las Vegas major sports. The Americans lasted only one season in Las Vegas, and Mendes returned to San Diego. But the UNLV television deal was arranged, and Pacific Teleproductions was born.

He worked with San Diego's Cox Cable to produce telecasts for the Aztecs, International Hockey League Gulls and Sockers. The West Coast Hockey League Gulls and Mendes currently have a proposal to Channel 4 to televise this year's hockey games.

His job coordinating soccer matches goes beyond booking a stadium and getting two squads. It also includes ensuring that visas are issued to the players and flight arrangements are made.

The essential element, however, is two teams that want to play at a certain venue. With the United States hosting the 1994 World Cup, Mexico played three international matches in San Diego to prepare for the 1994 tournament, and Mendes and Noel Limon coordinated those matches. The Mexican team averaged over 55,000 per game for those three friendlies.

The company didn't get the contract for the CONCACAF (North and Central America) Gold Cup in 1996, but he did meet the president of the Guatemalan soccer federation along with other top officials of that country, the necessary connections to arrange this week's game.

"We got two good teams. I think the Guatemalans like to play Mexico because they're the underdogs in these games," he said of the Chivas-Aurora matchup. "The quality of play is excellent."

He was also responsible for the U.S. Open Cup in January of this year, and for an April match in San Diego between Chivas and the Mexican team Club America.

The Mexican league's regular season ends Oct. 26. The lowest playoff-bound teams will play elimination matches through early November.

Mendes is finalizing details of a match between Major League Soccer's San Jose Clash (coached by former Sockers player and coach Brian Quinn) and a Mexican team, which he hopes will take place after the completion of the Mexican League playoffs.

If Qualcomm Stadium can be made available early next year, Mendes wants to arrange another international match involving the Mexican team.

"I want to have a game where I can fill the stadium. For USA-Jamaica to fill 55,000 people is incredible," said Mendes, admitting envy that the recent qualifying match in Washington, DC, was the third straight sellout for the U.S. Mendes feels that a quality match will allow that goal to be achieved.

Meanwhile, he retains his interest in baseball. He served as president of the Rolando Little League in 1995 and 1996. Rolando teams won District 33's Tournament of Champions, and a 9-10 year old all-star championship team on which his son, John, played during the two years of his presidency.

John, his middle child, now plays in the La Mesa Pony League and plays soccer for the Nomads club.

Daughter Tara, 16, a junior at Helix High School is on the water polo and swim teams. His youngest, Alyssa, 11, is in sixth grade in Blessed Sacrament; she plays softball for Valley Mesa and soccer for the Nomads.

Getting everyone into the swim of things goal of Lakeside swim club

by Greg Eichelberger

Has the hot, sticky, sultry weather finally drove you to desperation and the need for swimming lessons? Has watching your four-year old lap you in the apartment or neighborhood pool shamed you into seeking professional help for your "buoyancy" problem (like Al Campanis)? Want all of the above, but don't have Bill Gates' income?

All of these questions can be answered by calling Pam Schiller, a masters (advanced) instructor, as well as a pre-competitive (youngsters from 6-14) coach at Swim Unlimited in Lakeside.

Joined by other staff members, Dave Kilmer (director), Jeff Graeme, Barbara Robertson (former Olympic trial participant) and Stephanie Barber, Schiller takes pride in helping those aquatically-challenged individuals to succeed where once only marine mammals dared to venture.

"We teach everyone from pre-schoolers to senior citizens," said the long-time Lakeside resident. "No matter what level or skill ability they may be at." She adds that she loves this position and hopes to pass that along to her son Jeff, 7, who is also a student.

The pool, a 25-meter facility with five lanes, three to 10 feet deep and containing four starter boards, has been in existence for decades, once belonging to the Lakeside Swim & Tennis Club. Six doing a backstroke.

"We're not real picky on a person's ability," she said, "just as long as they know the basics."

And while competitive meets are not held here, style, training and preparation are taught at any of the club's years ago it was taken over by John's Trucking Co. which leases it to Kilmer and the group.

The only requirement, other than the $25 monthly fee for adults, children's prices are a bit higher), is that the subject be able to swim one length of the pool free style with side breathing, and one-half of a length doing a side-stroke and half classes for matches which take place all over the county.

The last in this area, a free style festival and relay, took place at Montgomery Middle School in El Cajon last weekend; the next, a meet in Chula Vista on Oct. 11.

Masters classes are held Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 5-6:30 a.m.; Tuesday and Thursday, 9:30-11 a.m.; and Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, 7:15-8:30 p.m., while the children meet at various times.

Several events, including a recent trip to Big Bear, brought parents and swimmers together for a weekend of fun and frivolity. The club is planning more things to come throughout the year.

Schiller also indicated, in addition to raising their own funds for such activities (It is a non-profit organization) via sales of Gold "C" Coupon books, baked goods, concession stand items, snack bar food and the like, the club could use the help of a friendly volunteer, now and then.

"We could always use that kind of help," she emphasized. For more information, call Swim Unlimited at 390-3900.

On being mayor

I must say that being mayor of our beloved city was the high point of my political career. Although it would have been best that we had a regular rotation of the post under the old appointive system, we did not do that. It remained for the people to decide on the question of a directly elected mayor, and they did overwhelmingly.

Next March, we will be having elections for three councilpersons and the mayor. Anyone who anticipates running for any of these posts should be preparing now. Take it from me, it takes time to do it right.

From where I sit now days, it seems to me that we do need good leadership in both council and mayoral seats. Although we are a small city, our problems and the seriousness of decisions are just as important as any other municipality, regardless of size. Spending our revenues needs as close consideration and study, whether we are talking millions or billions.

It appears that this is a unique situation where 80 percent of the city government could possibly be turned over. I sincerely hope that it does not happen. I am well satisfied with the present incumbents with regards to their past performances. By this, I do not wish to imply that there could not be changes for the better, or in any way discourage newcomers from seeking the seats. I would like to see a full blown race with some new faces that have the sincere purpose and goals of service to their community. The council and mayoral jobs are low pay, long hours, much study and always contain a very large target on ones back. You are always subject to second-guessers, and the universal question "Why did you not do it faster and cheaper?"

Here is a chance for the disenchanted to put their bodies where their mouths are. Monday morning quarterbacks can apply. The double speak of hazy logic and specious arguments comes into the spotlight of truth when someone has to take responsibility for the outcome. Sitting back and throwing theoretical darts from the shadows is an obsession with some. Whether it be like fighting an armless opponent who cannot hit back, or just the self gratification of belaboring someone else, it is not the stuff that good government is made of.

There are problems in our community. There are visionary projects that appeal to the heart, but tax the pocketbook. There are major choices as to how the future is engineered in the business, as well as the residential areas, of our town. This is serious business. If you are disposed to take a run at one of the seats, be sure that your intentions are for the best. Our city, and the community, deserves no less.

I have never favored term limits in any branch of government. We already have the ability to limit terms at the ballot box. I believe in experience and performance over profligate promises and protestations of great leadership abilities. Regular change and rotation will and should occur to bring new personalities and vigor to any job. Labor voting on the sole basis of race, creed or gender, and would favor complete elimination of such boxes in application forms. I did not include age, but maybe it should be eliminated also.

Please choose your punch holes carefully when voting next March, and please vote ...

Silver Hawks continue dominance of senior softball titles

The Southern California Silver Hawks senior softball team once again has won the 75+ age division at the 9th Annual Senior Softball World Series held in Irvine, Texas recently.

At this year's tournament, more than 120 teams competed, compared to the 60, who played in the 1989 inaugural series. There are 15 qualifying tournaments.

The win brings the total to six championship rings claimed by the team in the nine years the Senior World Series has been staged.

The 75s had won the other "leg" of the senior softball championships by taking Senior World Softball title in Salt Lake City, which was held the second week of September.

This is the second consecutive year the team has taken both titles.

In the double elimination rounds at Irvine, the team defeated Morgan Dentistry (Fla.), 12-5, Arizona Silver Foxes, 7-2 and the Palm Springs Nationals in the final, 11-6, to claim the title.

Holding top teams to less than five runs per game average was attributed to the team's strong defense.

Offensively, the team was led by pitcher Don Berg, who had a .714 batting average and seven RBIs. Phil Seewald (3B, .647, 7 RBIs) and Dick Rice, who led the team with 10 RBIs.

For the eight tournament season, the team compiled a .501 batting average, despite often playing down into the 70s age bracket.

The 75s record of six World Series and three Senior World titles is unmatched by any other senior team in the nation.

[Results of the younger age groups, including the La Mesa 65s, the Hawks 70s and women's teams had not been reported as of our publishing deadlines.]

Sports Beat

with Greg Eichelberger

As summer blends into fall, the seasons mingle like running water colors on the palette of our souls ... Oh, who am I kidding? I'm not a poet! And there's no blending of seasons in San Diego, anyway. Just a few degrees lower here and there.

With the Astros and Giants falling like cheap bowling pins, the Braves will now face the Marlins in the National League Championship Series. Oh please, please, please, please, don't let Atlanta get into the series, again!

I'm sick of Ted Turner, I'm sick of his left-wing wife, Jane Fonda, I'm sick of the "Tomahawk Chop," I'm sick of Smoltz, Glavine, Neagle and Maddux, and I'm sick of the senior circuit always losing the series whenever the Braves represents it.

I'm not crazy about Miami (and let's face it, friends, it's the Miami Marlins, not the Florida Marlins), either, but I'd like to see Jim Leyland win something, for once.

As far as the AL goes, it will probably be the Orioles and Yankees (up 2 - 1 over Seattle and Cleveland, respectively, at the time of this writing). My preference goes to Cleveland. After all, New York won last year, and, if the Tribe gets in the Fall Classic, I can interview Brian Giles when he comes back to participate in Steve Vickery's winter baseball camp.

One funny baseball note: Lakeside legend, Bob Cook (Heisman Trophy runner-up) asked me at last week's "Unity in the Community" mixer, if Sterling Hitchcock had made fun of Joe Naiman's shoes (as I pointed out in a previous column). There's no pulling the wool over this water board member's eyes is there?

In high school football, it seems unbelievable, but El Cajon Valley not only remained unbeaten at 4-0, but did it by smashing San Diego by an unbelievable (there's that word again) score of 48-0. In another non-league action, Helix edged Point Loma, 24-22, on a last-second field goal by Luke Johnson.

Meanwhile, the rest of the Grossmont League teams were beating up on each other. Valhalla put Santana back in the loss column (after a 15-game losing streak was broken last week) with a convincing 31-7 trouncing, its first win of the season (QB Aaron Sanders' had two TD passes, 148 yards). Granite Hills edged El Cap, 13-6, on a 70-yard fumble return by linebacker Halgorab Abbas for a TD. Grossmont stuck it to Mount Miguel, 34-6 (Foothillers QB Sam Huff, eight for 13, 245 yards) and West Hills moved to 4-0 as it humbled winless Monte Vista (0-4), 28-14 (Wolf Pack's Lon Sheriff passed for 164 yards and three TDs). Three lost fumbles didn't help the Monarchs cause.

The new Classic Sports Network has people talking. Last week at a roller hockey game in El Cajon, the rink was all-a-buzz about the channel's great old fight films, Super Bowl highlights, past NBA, NHL and ABA title games, Home Run Derby and World Series reviews, among other things. Fact is, all my jock friends love it. Call your cable company today.

You'll love this. The new Lakeside Boys & Girls Club will have a grand opening for their new Bob and Kay Hill (two dead people who gave a lot of money away) Gymnasium, on Oct. 15, beginning with a dinner at 5:30 p.m. For details, call Lesa Mitchell or Jerry "Just-Back-From-Alaska" Fazio at 440-1600.

The "3-On-3" basketball war will take place at West Hills High on Oct. 11 and 12. Dial 420-1089 for more information.

East County's Cari Slater, the Special Events Coordinator with the San Diego Gulls, has informed me that opening night is Oct. 24 against the new Phoenix Mustangs (7:05 p.m.). The next day, there will be a special 2 p.m. hockey match between the San Diego and Los Angeles fire departments, followed by a 4 p.m. fire expo, tailgate party and barbecue.

Proceeds are to benefit the Burn Institute. It's also Magnetic Schedule Night, as the Gulls take on the Fresno (Fighting) Falcons at seven. A nominal $10 ticket gets you food, fun, a hat and both games. Tickets and t-shirts are available through the Burn Institute by calling 541-2277.

Lekos Electric's employees cheer on company-owned car to championship

by Joe Naiman

Lekos Electric got into sponsorship of Cajon Speedway cars for employee morale as well as for publicity. Now the El Cajon company's 40 employees have a track championship.

Cajon Speedway awards trophies for each division: a driver championship and a car owner winner.

Usually the same owner/driver team wins both, but this year driver champion Gary Tamborelli borrowed Gary Jenkins' car after Tamborelli's was damaged during a heat race.

The 34 points Tamborelli earned that night were needed for the Sportsman Stock driver award, but the car points went to Jenkins instead of Tamborelli to give John Lekos the owner's prize.

"We created a lot of excitement for our sponsors and the employees of our company. That was one of our main goals, to get people out to the racetrack," said Lekos.

The company was founded in 1989. Employee Joe Stone, who drove at the Cajon Speedway, talked his boss into buying tires in exchange for sponsorship. "It's his fault," quipped Lekos of Stone. "If it wasn't for Joe, I'd have a lot more money right now."

He eventually bought a Sportsman Stocks car along with a hauler and trailer. This year, Stone decided not to drive for family reasons, and Lekos secured 1996 Sportsman Stocks champion Jerry Gay as a driver. He also bought a second car, which Donnie Williams drove this year to a top 10 finish.

"It started out easy and then it snowballed," remarked Lekos. The car which Gay drove in 1997 accumulated 990 points during the season for Gay and Lekos. Tamborelli accumulated 1020 points overall and 986 points in his car.

During the last race of the season Lekos Electric workers and their families took up three rows in the Cajon Speedway stands.

"It built morale in the company. That was the whole idea, to get the employees together," said Lekos.
